Skill Development @genius

ABOUT BASIC SKILLS

Basic Skills are inbuilt perception and awareness in an individual. They take the form of ability, adaptability and application.

As Swami Vivekananda said, "The essence of education is concentration of mind, not the collection of facts. If I had to do my education over again I would not study facts at all. I would develop the power of concentration, memory and detachment and with this perfect instrument I could collect as much facts at will."

Every person goes through a series of experience in order to be an effective member of the society. From the day an infant is born it has to learn several motor skills like grasping, lifting the head, turning, crawling, creeping, standing, walking and talking. Slowly these skills give rise to finer skills like running, playing a sport, dancing, playing music, reading and writing. Modern living has taken these skills for granted and people today feel that all skills come automatically. However, they fail to understand the amount of effort and practice that the child puts in order to master these skills.

Genius Language Lab
